

In Regards to: RM-10808

Once again this is another interesting proposal, a possible compromise, but still totally uncalled for.

Element 1 should be completely abolished from license testing. There is no further reason for it to be upheld, the only reason why it has been obtained this long was due to the treaty requirement, which was removed at WRC-2003. The FCC should take swift action in removing all forms of CW testing from any license class of Amateur radio license.

Respectfully,

Scott Lichtsinn, KB0ONLY